Ely Culbertson Addresses Second Convocation Monday

Bridge Expert
Will Discuss
Peace Plan

"The Plan for World Settlement" will be the subject of the lecture discussion given by Ely Culbertson at the second convocation of the quarter at 11 a.m. Monday in Memorial hall.

All fourth hour classes, 11 to 11:50 a.m. will be dismissed for the occasion. It has been announced by the office of the dean.

Mr. Culbertson, widely known bridge expert, is both a psychologist and author. For over 20 years he has been studying how men behave as crowds and nations, and trying to find out how they can be made to behave more intelligently than they do.

Lived In Russia

Mr. Culbertson spent his early years in Russia and while still in his teens he was thrown into a prison of the Czar with a group of his fellow revolutionaries. He has attended six great universities and read widely in philosophy, history, economics, and also stood in breadlines, picked fruit, planted corn, panehanded, and gambled scientifically for a living.

It is said of Mr. Culbertson that he is the only expert on international politics who has worked out a detailed and comprehensive plan for the peace treaty and the organization of a post-war world.

Dean Leo M. Chamberlain will preside at the convocation and Dr. Henry N. Sherwood will give the invocation and benediction.

Party Planned To Benefit WSSF

A benefit bridge party, proceeds from which will aid in the World Student Service fund's annual drive, will be given by Mortar Board on Thursday, November 16 from 3 to 6 p.m. in the Union building.

Tickets may be purchased from Mortar Board members for 25 cents. WSSF is the international student organization with which Dr. J. Huntley Dupre, former University history professor, now holds an executive position in New York.

Dr. E. F. Farquhar III

Prof. E. F. Farquhar, of the University's English department, is seriously ill at the Good Samaritan hospital following a cerebral hemorrhage early Wednesday.

Doctors reported on Thursday morning that his condition was fair.

Beth Caddy Chosen As 'Junior Miss'

Briggs Announces Complete Cast Of First Play

The leading role of the first Guild production of the 1944-45 season, "Junior Miss," will be played by Beth Caddy.

The cast of the play, which will open Monday, November 27, and continue through Saturday, December 2, was announced by Wallace Briggs, director, on Tuesday. They are the following University students:

Miss Caddy as Judy Graves; Jean Collier as Lois Graves; Ivoulo Ross as Puffy Adams; Hugh Collet as Western Union boy; Carolyn Schaffer as Ellen Curtis; Jennings Kerr as Barlow Adams; Johnny Renfro as Merrill Peurback; W. B. Wrench as Sterling Brown; Conrad Richardson as Albert Kennedy; Robert Ogden as Tommy Arbuckle. The only faculty member of the University on the cast is English instructor Don Irvine as Willis Reynolds. Other players include Eli Popa as Harry Graves; Sarah McLevy as Wilson-Grace Graves; Opal Palmer as Hilda; Edmund Mills as J. B. Curtis; and Jimmy Glenn as Hascal Cummins.

"Junior Miss" was written by Jerome Chodorov and Joseph Fields and was first produced by Moss Hart on Broadway in New York, where it ran for almost two years. It concerns adolescent scrapes of typical 14-year-old Judy Graves, and her 17-year-old sister, Lois. The box office will open November 20.

Musicales Scheduled

William Primrose, Scotch master of the viola, will open the 1944-45 season of Sunday afternoon musicales at 4 p.m. October 29, in Memorial hall.

Mr. Primrose, well-known by Lexington music lovers, is an avid boxing fan and has a seasonal reservation for ringside seats at New York's Madison Square Garden. An amateur boxer in his student days, he ventured into the ring for fear of hurting his hands which earn him an income in five figures.

Although the technique of playing a rare and beautiful Amati viola is a far cry from that of the prize-ring, Primrose points out that violists and prize fighters have two requisites in common—a long reach and a strong grip.

William Primrose has done more, perhaps, than any one man to persuade the present generation of concert-goers that the viola deserves a place with the violin and the cello instrument.

The viola is more cumbersome than the violin, its tone is a fifth deeper and while it uses the same finger positions as the smaller instrument, the means of approaching them are quite different. Tone production on the viola also differs greatly from that on the violin.

To acquire a technique which permits playing the viola with the same virtuosity as a fifth-rank violinist brings to the smaller instrument, Mr. Primrose says, "a matter of hard work and not allowing yourself to be hidebound by tradition."

Mr. Primrose's program is: "Ich ruf zu Dir," Bach; and "Concerto on Themes of Cimarosa," Beethoven. In the second group Mr. Primrose will present scenes of Melancholy, Happiness and Joy from "Harold in Italy," titled "Harold in the Mountains," by Berlioz. His third group will be the "Elegy," "Waltz" and "Tocata" by Benjamin. The concluding group will be "Soft Strains of Music Drifting," Brahms-Primrose; "Tambourin," Rameau-Kreisler; "Ave Maria," Schubert-Wilhelm; and "Presto," Tartini.

Following Dr. Garr's address, and an open discussion, a short business session will be held. Refreshments carrying out the Halloween motif will be served in the recently opened Pryor Pre-med lounge.

All pre-med students are urged to attend, and guests are invited.

Conference Meets Today

Kentucky Educators Convene On Campus

Approximately 1,000 educators from all parts of Kentucky are on the campus today attending the 21st annual Educational Conference and the 10th annual meeting of the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Among the nationally known educators who are appearing on the programs are Dr. Fred J. Kelley, Washington, D. C., chief of the division of higher education for the United States Office of Education; Dr. Francis J. Brown, Washington, D. C., consultant for the American Council on Education; and Dr. Stephen M. Corey, Chicago, Ill., professor of educational psychology at the University of Chicago.

Preliminary meetings were held last night at the Lafayette hotel with the executive committee of the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools holding a session, and the commission on colleges and universities and the commission on secondary schools also convening. This morning the convention program will get under way.

First Session The first general session will open at 10 o'clock this morning in Memorial hall with Dr. Corey, Dr. Kelley and Dr. Brown as the speakers. President H. L. Donovan will preside at this session. The theme of the session will be education and the post war world.

This afternoon beginning at 2:30 and tonight at 7:30 a series of round table discussions will be held.

The opening general session for the College Section of the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be held at 2 p.m. in Room 111 of McVey hall, while the opening session for the (Continued on Page Four)

Kyian Sales High; Queen Nominations Approximately 50

Approximately fifty candidates will be nominated for beauty queen in the Kentuckian beauty contest, June Baker, editor of the yearbook, announced yesterday.

For every ten Kentuckian deposits the sorority or housing unit which sold the books is entitled to enter one candidate. Advance sales totaled 519 deposits.

The contest will be held in Memorial hall at a date to be announced later. The Beauty Queen and her court will be presented at a winter dance soon after the contest.

Dr. C. C. Garr Speaks To Pre-Med Society

Dr. Charles C. Garr, osteologist, will address the Pryor Pre-medical society at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at a meeting in Room 313 of the Biological Science building.

Following Dr. Garr's address, and an open discussion, a short business session will be held. Refreshments carrying out the Halloween motif will be served in the recently opened Pryor Pre-med lounge.

All pre-med students are urged to attend, and guests are invited.

Philosophy Club Meets Monday Night

A review and a critique of the policies of the Communist party in the United States will be presented by Richard D. Baker, A&S sophomore, at the meeting of the Philosophy club to be held Monday, Mr. John S. Kuiper, faculty adviser, announced yesterday.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 in Room 106 Prazee hall. Election of officers for 1944-45 will be held. Mr. Kuiper extended a special invitation to anyone interested in world affairs.

Drive Tops Goal Of $750 By $50.45

Sororities Donate Over 65% Of Total

With a total student contribution of $801.55 the University War Chest drive had topped its goal of $750 when the drive ended on Friday, October 20. Since the goal was reached on that day, it was not necessary to extend the drive into this week as had been previously announced.

Sorority Contributions

The eight sororities on the campus contributed over 65% of the total amount, according to Bill Government association, which sponsored the drive. Embry said that without the donations of the sororities the drive would have been less successful than last year's when $250 was given by the soldiers then on the campus.

The money given by students of the University will be used to provide essential wartime services to our armed forces, merchant marine, and prisoners of war, and to supply relief to refugees from occupied countries.

Campus Organizations

Contributions of campus organizations are as follows: Kappa Kappa Gamma, $129.03; Delta Delta Delta, $92.00; Alpha Xi Delta, $69.00; Chi Omega, $66.02; men's dormitories, $63.10; Alpha Gamma Delta, $62.04; Patterson hall, $59.79; Kappa Delta, $45.05; Boyd hall, $31.31; Alpha Delta Pi, $35.35; Jewell hall, $22.55; Phi Delta Theta, $16.55; Sigma Nu house, $16.50; Independents, $15.16; SuKy, $15.00; Shelby house, $10.00; Zeta Tau Alpha, $6.92; Phalanx, $6.50; McDowell house, $6.50; Sigma Chi, $6.13; commuters, $5.25; Mrs. Huddle's house, $4.50; Lydia Brown house, $4; Hamilton house, $3.61; Women's Athletic association, $3.25; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, $2.50; Pride house, $2.35; YWCA, $2.00; Sigma Phi Epsilon, $1.54; football team, $1.50; Kappa Alpha, $1; miscellaneous, $3.45; ASTP, $2.00.

365 Women Join YWCA

With only approximately one-third of the reports on the YWCA membership drive, which closed October 20, received in the YWCA office, Miss Rosalie Oakes, YWCA secretary, announced Wednesday that the total number of new members had reached 365.

The following number of new women have joined from the residences: Boyd hall 56, Patt hall 72, Jewell hall 32, Lydia Brown 13, Hamilton house 1, Shelby house 22, Sigma Nu 14, Alpha Gamma Delta 18, McDowell 8, Kappa Delta 24, and Lexington girls, commuters, etc. 104.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma report is not in and only partial reports have been received from Boyd hall, Jewell hall, Hamilton House, and McDowell House.

Miss Oakes reports that every girl in Shelby house has joined and paid her membership fees. This is the second consecutive year the Shelby house has attained this perfect record.

The annual drive for membership ended last week, but at any time a girl may join the YWCA by going to the YWCA office, Room 123, in the Union building.

Interviews Given By Eastman Agent

A representative of the Tennessee Eastman company will be on the University campus, Tuesday, October 31, to interview students for positions with the company. Seniors from all colleges of the University who are interested are requested to sign in Room 121 for an appointment before Tuesday.

Coeds Will Welcome More Servicemen

By Maud Keller

Men! Men! Soldier men! More soldier men! It is rumored that we, here at old UK are going to have some more soldier boys around. So we inquired of the students, "What do you think of that?"

Most all of the fair sex are of the opinion that this would be fine. At least all of the freshmen women are delighted at the thought of there being more boys in soldier suits around. Even some more 17-year-olds wouldn't be too bad to take.

"We only hope they can stay out later than the soldiers who are here now," was the comment of some coeds. There are the girls, no doubt, who are coming up with a three standing, and can afford to stay out after the army's curfew.

Some of our fellow students are a bit dubious about the rumor, and can only remark that they will never believe it until they see the new bunch of engineers and pre-meds in the flesh.

One kid with a Virginia O'Brien expression on her face could only utter "whee." We only hope she puts forth some more enthusiasm when and if the boys do come. After all, where is all of our "southern hospitality?"

Our older girls are not so excited about this new crop. It is said there will be some in this new enrollment, who are over 18 years old, but just how many will be of draft age, no one knows. The girls are afraid there won't be enough of these "older men" to go around.

It will be wonderful to have more

Y Leader Leaves To Accept USO Field-Directorship

Miss Rosalie Oakes, University YWCA student-secretary, has been granted a leave of absence from November 1 until September, 1945. Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, dean of women, announced Wednesday.

Miss Oakes has accepted a position as field-director for the USO Campus services, YWCA, for the Southern Region. She will have her headquarters at the regional office of the YWCA at Richmond, Va., but she will travel throughout the south.

Miss Dorothy Collins, former social director for the Union, will succeed Miss Oakes as YWCA secretary, Dean Holmes said.

Miss Oakes, a native of Winchester, Va., was graduated from Westhampton college, University of Richmond, at Richmond, Va., in 1939. She was a member of Mortar Board, and president of the YWCA. In 1942 she received a B.D. degree from Crozer Theological seminary at Chester Pa. In that same year she came to the University as YWCA secretary. From Lexington she will go to New York for a short period of training, and then will go to Richmond.

Miss Collins was graduated from the Home Economics college at the University in March, 1943. From that date until July, 1943, she was social director at the Union. She then became a Girl Reserve secretary at Roanoke, Va. In July, 1944, she resigned that position and in September came to the University.

Workers Wanted Anyone interested in helping with the sale of War Bonds and Stamps on the campus is asked to meet at 5 p.m. Monday in Room 205 of the Union building.

Thomas' Men Are Older, Tougher But 'Cats Gave Vols A Tussle; Game Tonight Will Be Close

Tackling the Crimson Tide from Alabama which battled Tennessee to a scoreless tie Saturday, the Kentucky Wildcats will play their most important game of the season tonight in Montgomery.

With Schu, Paul, Ferrell, Thomas and Yost off the injured list in a body, and armed with an overwhelming victory over VMI, the Wildcats are slated to give the Tide and Coach Frank Thomas a battle. Doubly cautious of Demon casualty which has plagued the squad all year, Kirwan has eliminated rough contact work from all practice sessions this week before heading for Alabama Wednesday.

Will This Be Permanent?

Ode to Mayhem

By Don Lail

It has never been my policy to slander, defame, or to throw salt but a certain "shaker" needs shaking. It ain't what you shake, it's the way that you shake it. In the Kernel is a column labeled "Ode to Mayhem". I wonder what the question mark is? Being literary has never been an accomplishment sought after by the amateur writers. As we are not supposed to be able to write like Keats, Wordsworth, or Fischer it isn't being done now. It has always been the policy to have honor even among thieves; however, as to date no one has ever made a statement. As someone once said, "I hate war," but if it's necessary let's wage it even if only over a salt cellar.

Historical Note To Note

This week Henry VIII comes to our attention with the completion of the world series. In those days he only played an eight-inning game and it was called in the eighth because of rain. In the first four innings he was testing opposition but in the fourth a foul ball was struck and in the fifth a couple more errors were recorded. The interesting part of this game was the complete change in rules after the first inning which practically threw the other team out of the game. The score ended eight to nothing, three errors which were written in the book, and several of the contestants lost their heads in the fracas.

A New Personality

Our sorrowful farewell to Bill Embury, president of the student body. He has been eclipsed in popularity by the triple threat to UK. 1. If it isn't Frank Sinatra, who is it? 2. If it isn't Cab Calloway, who is it? 3. If it isn't the man who stormed San Juan Hall, who is it? 4. Who was the man who beat Willie in 1940 if it wasn't Roosevelt? 5. Who besides the Marines took Salpica? Can you guess? He is the super dupe bugle boy from old UK!!

It was a bright beautiful day. The Grill was crowded. It must be convocation. Seated in the Grill was Jewell Hall's own "Beautiful" Lorraine, glamor girl of the "Blackfoot" tribe, and a member of the student's locals number 249 with rights to hunt and be hunted. Our Lorraine a member of the "Amor Club" holds sessions in the ping-pong room nightly. Before membership in the club she was mentioned by Walter Wendling in his column "In Little Old Virginia." Said Lorraine met an Indian on the street corner and she didn't know he had been scalped in 1899 and wore a wig. (A walking skeleton with a wig.) Lorraine didn't know this and as the day was very very cold she inquired about his house. She said, "Is your wig warm?"

Salt Shaker

By Billie Fischer

"Go, Big Blue!" yelled the crowd when the team boosted the score another six points. "Go, Big Blue!" yelled the crowd when the Blue slipped from eager hands and fell to the pavement.

Never before, in our knowledge, has there been so much roommate trouble on the campus. It seems as if people who hate each other were purposely tossed together. We might as well get in on the fun and capitalize on it, too. If anyone would care for an option on a tall strawberry blonde with pea green eyes, who is passionately fond of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Terry and the Pirates, we'll be glad to rent her out. This offer applies to coeds only.

While we were munching our fudge cake the other night, we were seized with the desire to see what effects some classical music would have on the other fudge-eaters assembled there. We dropped a jitney in the slot and asked to hear Beethoven's Eighth Symphony.

The operator, thinking that her hearing was at fault, handed the phone over to a sister operator. We repeated our request and were told, midst much laughter, that they didn't possess the recording. So then we asked for anything by Shostakovich, and when the operator has finished choking, we asked for Stravinsky. When she snored and said they didn't have any, we asked her to tell us which Tchaikovsky records they had. She read a very long list, but we didn't care for the selections and told her so. She asked, "Why don't you play a real solid boogie woogie instead?" We feigned indignation, and insisted upon hearing the Hungarian Rhapsody. She breathed a sigh of relief and said good-bye. Then we got set for the music and the consequences. The first heavy chords acted as an electric shock. Many people jumped, many winced, a few screamed, and the others just moaned. One boy actually tore his hair out. Very interesting.

We like this story about John Barrymore. He once walked into an elite Hollywood clothier's, and ordered a suit and started to walk out. The clerk stopped him with, "And what is your name, sir?" "Barrymore," he said coldly. "Which one?" asked the clerk. "Ethel," was the frigid reply.

And that reminds us of a friend who walked up to the box-office at a New York theater, saw that the tickets were 98 cents each, and handed the cashier a dollar bill. "How many?" said the cashier.

"Nine," said our friend. Have you ever noticed how many variations of a simple greeting are given on the campus? When we were young, everyone used to be satisfied with a plain old "hello." But times are changing. Now, you're not accepted in the best circles unless you sport one of the vowel sounds when passing acquaintances.

ances. So far, we've heard "Hi," "Hey," "Ho," "Humm," and "Ugh." We're waiting to hear "Hee," and "Haw."

Conversation overheard in the dining room, "I heard that we have lights out just to save electricity."

To all those who translate foreign languages too literally, let these samples from our Spanish class be a lesson to you. "He straightened up with a leap in his seat."

"The old gardener, seated on his legs, died laughing."

And the translation found written between the lines in our text: "... he drug the chair across the floor."

We met Dom-Dom the other day. He shook his list and cursed. He said someone would have to pay for doing what we must.

"You wait till Friday comes around," said he in accents low. And beat his head upon the ground— His brains, no doubt, to show. "A battle of our wits," cried he, (I think he was alarmed) But I won't fight with old D.D. Because he is unarmed.

Are Frats On The Way Out?

Generally when we think of college life and all that's built around it we consider fraternities with their definite activities almost foremost as a monument of fond memories.

We think of the traditions that have been passed on down through the decades since the first social fraternity was installed on the campus in 1893. We have a certain feeling of awe when we remember that the present Kappa Alpha house, formerly the Ashland Place, was an old Lexington home used as a Confederate hospital during the Civil War.

Now, when war has necessitated the foreclosure of a majority of fraternities at UK and at thousands of other colleges and universities, the possibility of a final exit on the part of these traditional organizations is evident. For many, not merely because of sentimental attachments but for deeper reasons as well, such an act would involve much discomfiture and a feeling of rebellion from all sides.

When conscription became compulsory hundreds of fraternity men were forced to leave the campus. And again when the ROTC units were sent to infantry and signal corps OCS, many more were taken leaving the status of UK fraternities somewhat obsolete. Nevertheless, there was a feeling among all of them that someday they would return to the same house and the same type of fellowship they had enjoyed before a war disturbed this existence. It wouldn't exactly be fair to deprive them this much.

Right now fraternities are finding themselves in a precarious position. Their importance on a college campus goes unnoticed since the minority group only is represented. Naturally they cannot be called upon to fulfill the various duties performed in normal times. Last week results in the national War Chest drive revealed that the eight sororities on the University campus presented the Student Government Assembly with 65% of all donations taken in. Had fraternities been fully represented at that time they too, mainly because both function alike in many respects, would have made it a point—a very worthwhile point—to show as much enthusiasm for such a cause.

Arguments are continually piling up against the fraternity, yet the development of the individual himself has never directly been pointed out. When a new student, as a freshman, first comes from his small home town to a university where he is thrown in with new and many types of people, he licks that he is strange to them. They are all new to him. What he eventually finds in fraternities helps to introduce him immediately to those who can do him most good at this particular time, and instead of wandering about for weeks he is thrown in the midst of a group who will see to it that he is made to feel a part of something. And this same feeling of belonging will follow throughout his lifetime so that never will he be in a position where he can't depend on that group to help him out.

Fraternities will aid, not hinder, any campus.

A Plea for Help

One of the first exclamations a stranger utters when he sees our campus is, "What a beautiful location!"

Nowhere can we find a better site, nowhere can we find a more luxuriant growth of our far-famed blue grass, but as we look out upon this wealth of natural beauty, our aesthetic souls cringe within us to see the many ugly scars. It seems that our utilitarian natures cause us to be so economic in the use of our time that we invariably take the "shortest cut" to our destination. The question is whether, after being made aware of the situation, we shall continue to make more paths or decide to help preserve the beauty of our campus.

"Hell Fur Sartin"

Kentucky's great author, John Fox, Jr., gave a reading in our chapel this past week. He afterwards commented favorably on the freedom with which everyone seemed to express their appreciation, and upon the absence of that cramped restraint which was formerly imposed in almost all colleges on the student body.

Commencement festivities are proceeding according to plan. The seniors banqueted at the Country Club in a last get-together. President and Mrs. Barker held a reception in honor of the graduating class at Patterson Hall.

Professor MacKenzie's book, "Evolution of Literature," has been placed on sale.

The Democratic Club of State University met on the second floor of the Old Dorm. The organization of the club was perfected and officers were elected. Plans were discussed concerning the reception of William Jennings Bryan, who is to speak in Chapel Thursday morning.

"The Strollers," recently reorganized dramatic club, is to present "Brown at Harvard" at the Lexington Opera House.

Measuring Up!

By Adele Denman

"Box Cars" is tired of picturing merely love as a gamble, so in this column, I am going to gamble on a few more things—your interest for one. Pick out what you like—hope you like it!

Everything in this column is an original idea, and does not necessarily constitute an endorsement of our product.

There comes a time in the life of every columnist when he finds himself forced to break down and say a few things that he has felt like saying all year.

Editorials have been called the mind and soul of the newspaper. Then may I ask, "Why in the heck doesn't someone take them to heart?" Last week Miss Edwards sat down and wrote an editorial and in a nice way mentioned that going to convocations was beneficial. You who didn't attend convo last week have obviously found out that the University is in a pretty big mix-up. President Donovan can't, as all you football players know, play game with a marble, so it's up to students to pitch him a real ball, by offering him all of the moral support we can. We don't want a bunch of "knotheads" for professors, and the way to keep our own record ones, is to win this fight. Some letters, this space will be used to print any of them. How many kids, let's show them what we can do!

2. Another thing that we are all interested in is—(may I speak in a quiet whisper?)—Politics! We have a right as future citizens to voice our views and to know about them. Let's not go around mumbling incoherent things about Roosevelt and going to live another four years so that we don't like Dewey because he has a mustache. Let's get facts, many of us can vote, so let's go to the polls knowing what it is all about!

3. The "Y" is not an organization that holds meetings every Tuesday night and passes out blue feathers to go with your new suit. The words, if nothing else, on your membership card should mean something.

"We unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God."

"We determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people."

"In this task we seek to understand Jesus and follow him."

4. There are a few persons on this campus who really deserve mention for the swell job they do when they tackle something:

a. "Yipe!" a student cried at the football game. "The bass drum—it has legs!" No, little one, 'tis just Casey "Drumboogie" Goman, the bass drum player in the "Best Band in Dixie" who owns the legs. The pint-sized gal with the king-sized drum whose motto is to have "the best beat drum in Dixie!"

b. Another person to be admired is D. O. Burke. Right or wrong, he stands up for what he believes.

c. Still another is Dr. Ward, who has made for more unity and enthusiasm in the boy's dorms than anyone could believe.

d. A student was heard to say, "If my girl grows up to be a woman like Mrs. Elizabeth Moore of the University book store, it will really revive my faith in womanhood."

As the ball raced toward their goal line.

The game—I knew we'd win it. For when I saw the "plesskin," I saw a pig was in it.

The tennis fiends now have a toast. As they drink their glass of port. Here's to the birds—the clever things—

Marked off our tennis court.

6. It seems strange at this point to bring up books, but we have a rather intimate acquaintance with the darn things. We do almost everything with them—we never crack them, we doodle on them, press flowers in them, and place them in bookcases. This might sound radical, but I read one once — and liked it so much that I would like to pass it on to you.

You journalism students! This book is called One Damn Thing After Another and is the light-hearted adventures on four war fronts of a roving correspondent trapped between the censors and the axis. It is frankly a scream—funniest book of the year! $2.50. Doubleday Doran.

7. I am sure that you have read the columns on this page and have realized that a feud is going on between my two learned colleagues of "Ode to Mayhem" and the "Salt Shaker" respectively. Frankly I think it is a riot! At last someone has had the nerve to play havoc with mayhem, and the result we hope, will be a panic.

8. Last and least... Jane Miller had a chance for four dates the other weekend—including Sing Yeary and Bill Embury. Bill Reese missed maneuvers the other night, for he was so excited over Janice Ayers having a date with another man. Pat Self can be seen most any time with Wilbur Schu.

What Goes On There...

A professor at Purdue lost a pupil on Monday morning in an unconventional way. In an 11 a. m. psychology class Dr. Lawshe, blindfolded, was demonstrating a memory feat. A rugged Navy V-12 picked up his books and tiptoed out.

South American Way

Down in South America they've just discovered a sheep that can run 60 miles an hour. It takes that kind of a lamb to keep up with Mary now.

No Harm Done

Overheard in the stadium department at Alabama P. I.:
He: It's so dark here that I can't see my hand in front of my face.
She: Don't worry. I know where it is.

Hills of West Virginia

In the dining room of Woman's Hall at West Virginia U. the pessimists, "Is there any milk in the jug?"

The optimist says, "Please pass the cream."

Soldier and his Sarge at Fort Greely, Alaska:

"Look here, soldier, this man beside you on this fatigue detail is doing twice the work you are."

"I know, Sarge. That's what I've been telling him for the last hour, but the damned fool won't slow down!"

Man defined from the Devil's Dictionary:

Man defined is an animal so lost in rapturous contemplation of what he thinks he is as to overlook what he indubitably ought to be. His chief occupation is extermination of other animals and his own species, which, however, multiplies with such insistent rapidity as to infest the whole habitable earth and Canada.

Cake Race:

The annual ODK-Wilbur Hutsell Cake Race for freshmen at Alabama will be held on November 1. Winner of the Cake Race is "king for a day." He will receive his numeral sweater, a large cake, a month's free pass to the Tiger Theatre and a kiss from Miss Auburn of 1941-42.

Typographical Errors:

In one of the local hangouts at West Virginia U. the record machine has a record listed "Moonlight Bag." The real name of the song is "Moonlight Bay."

Tops for outdoors

Completely glamorous for the day winter ahead yet very simple, sumptuously plain is the beauty of the fur-trimmed coat. Perfect for any occasion which requires you to look and feel your best, it comes in the purest, richest shades of blue, black, brown, scarlet, gold, and American Beauty wools, trimmed in such handsome furs as mouton, skunk sealine trimmer, lamb sable, oiled muskrat and squirrel.

Coming down a notch for the conservative type of gal a dress-up coat that will bring forth compliments and maybe corsages, is a sleek fitting princess style coat, cut on severely tailored lines in such divine shades as you've never seen. For the larger girl, try a boxy Chesterfield arranged to camouflage your figure in the softest wools and best looking shades.

Not that you're praying for rain, but just in case, a "must" for every school or campus wardrobe is a slim fitting airy-light coat of popular rayon gabardine to repel showers. You will find it in autumn-gold, tender-blue, cocoa, navy, beige, white and gay plaids, stripes, and checks for all and every thunderstorm, gentle rain, or hurricane.

To bring glory to your crown and slaps from the males, any one of the new hats, which the beauties of the country are modeling: the fine felt cloche, banded with ribbons; colored half hat with a look-at-me bow; off-the-face bowler with crisp ribbon belting; two-layer muffs with a saucy little feather; and the British beret with Roman numerals around the crown, are sure to bring you quick results.

Scenes Around the Campus

At the VMT game, Lib Taylor was looking her smoothest in a pale orchid suit, and tan gabardine raincoat; drinking a coke in the grandstands was Ann Garland Jefferies in a navy checked skirt, crimson red jacket, and navy gabardine blouse; cheering her lungs out was Fike Shean wearing a three piece suit of black and white checked wool and pett black cloche hat; Pat Howell dressed smartly in a black tuxedo suit, black shoes, and a tiny off-the-face hat; Isabel Telpas was at the Union dance Saturday night making a dreamy appearance in a black skirt, a dainty white blouse, and black toe/ess and heelless shoes.

At the Chi O open house Friday night, Mary Margaret Higginson danced in a two-tone blue and beige rabbit-hair wool dress with two bows on either side of the sweetheart neckline; along the jewelry line, saw Ann Birk and her distinctive silver bracelets, and the ever popular silver hair clip; Monie Ormsby looked cute as a bug's ear in a green corduroy dress trimmed in red with a bunny rabbit's head on the shoulder.

How to Be a Wallflower in One Easy Lesson

Poor little Sally Beanpole is all ready for the big shindig of the year, "The Draft Dodgers Dance." Naturally wanting to look her best, Sally decides that in order to be the glamor puss of the evening, she must have that clinging white jersey dress that is in the window of the Drop Shop downtown. The night of the big dance arrives and skinny Sally with her new white dress arrives at the dance unaccompanied. After slinking past the tag line 12 times in a row, with no results, Sally, with spirits still high, but her feet killing her, sits down in the corner. Meanwhile Freddy Flatfoot, Sally's dream man, comes tripping in. Freddie has promised her one dance. Eeeek! He spies her! Ye Gads, where is she, is that a yardstick or a pole to hang your hat on? There's Sally in her sweetest smile and her downfall, the white clinging jersey dress. Running home in tears, Sally sobs out to her mother the horrible time she has had, saying she can't understand what spoiled her evening.

True, gals, Sally tried to look her prettiest, but a thin girl just doesn't click in a slenderizing dress. Poor Sally, some day she'll learn that a very slim girl should always, always, wear clothes that don't emphasize her thinness. Ruffles, pleats, cords, and gathers are the only things to fill out curves that aren't there.

Club Elects New Officers

The Business Education club has elected the following officers: Eleanor Bach, Jackson, was re-elected president; Sarah Goodwin, Princeton, was re-elected vice-president; Irene Bridgeman, Wheelwright, secretary-treasurer.

Membership in the club is open to all students who are interested in teaching commerce. Prof. A. J. Lawrence, head of the Department of Business Education, is sponsor of the organization.

Woman's Club Holds Meeting

The Woman's Club of the University held its first meeting of the year at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Music room of the Union building.

Betty Harris Russell, vocalist, and Helen Lipscomb, pianist, presented a musical program. Mrs. Lawrence L. Quill, chairman of the Brides and Newcomers group, was in charge of the program.

Immediately following the musical program, an informal tea, arranged by Mrs. A. J. Lawrence, social chairman, was given in honor of the newcomers to the University. Mrs. Amy Vandenberg, first vice-president, and Mrs. M. M. White, second vice-president, presided at the tea table.

The complete program for the year, arranged by Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, program chairman, is as follows:

"Worship for All"

Rendering practical aid to listeners who grapple with the cares of life!

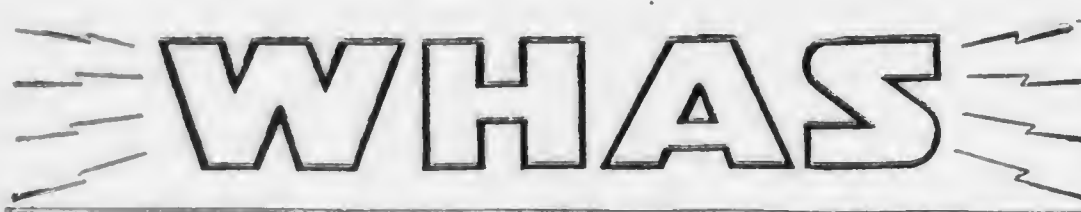

WHAS is the first station ever to offer a sustaining broadcast service... endowing religion with a full-time place on its staff.

"Worship for All" is what the name implies, a message with broad appeal to all ages, all creeds, church and unchurched alike... applying the principles of religion to major problems of the day. Heard Monday through Friday, 1:45-2:00 P.M., the service opens with a theme song especially written for it, has a brief prayer, three well known hymns and the eight-minute sermon.

Holder of degrees from Hiram College (Ohio) and the University of Chicago in religion and social sciences, Burns took a pastorate for four years, then turned to child welfare foundation work. Prior to joining WHAS he served Milligan College, Tennessee, as college pastor, dean, professor and finally president. Tempered by life, Burns has seven grown, married children with whom he recently celebrated the arrival of his 17th grandchild. "Worship for All" has been on the air only since September 1st, yet many listeners have written us their appreciation of this much needed service.

Dedicating the power of 50,000 watts to the greatest message of all time!

Wildcats Trim VMI 26-2 Before 8,000 Spectators

Single Wing Used For First Time

By Dick Lowe

The Kentucky Wildcats, using the single wing formation for the first time this season on Stoll Field, defeated the VMI Cadets 26-2. Approximately 8,000 people witnessed Saturday's contest, including hundreds of guests of high school day. The victorious Wildcats were heroes to the future football generation who mobbed their favorite players for autographs after the game.

Score Every Quarter

The Wildcats scored in every quarter as their more powerful line opened wide gaps and ran stiff interference for the scoring of Klein and Campbell. The Cadets fought gallantly but their scoring efforts were constantly stopped by the Wildcats' stubborn defense. Wash Serini again played his ever-brilliant game at tackle throwing the VMI backfield for several losses and stopping them at the line of scrimmage for no gain.

The backfield combination of Parrott, Saunders, Klein, and Campbell proved too powerful for the visitors to hold in check. The whole Kentucky team had great respect for the play of Kozorra as the 168-pound triple-threat back played the entire 60 minutes, completing nine of 24 passes and handling the ball on nearly every play.

Klein Punt

Norman Klein showed his ability at punting by quick-kicking Kentucky out of danger several times. His longest punt was for 64 yards when he kicked from his own 34 and the ball rolled dead on the one-yard line.

The first 12 minutes of the game was a methodical run and punt contest with the game being played mostly in midfield until Shorts intercepted one of Kozorra's many passes on the 36-yard line and returned it to the visitors' 30. Then Kentucky broke loose when on the second play Campbell ripped through the line, sidestepped the remaining would-be tacklers and went over the goal for the first score of the game. Ferris' kick from placement split the uprisings and Kentucky led 7-0. The Cadets tried hard to get back in the game but it was the second quarter before they registered their first down.

Fake Reverse

Kentucky's drive down the field for the second touchdown began after Kozorra's punt went out of bounds on the Kentucky 21. Using several fake-reverse plays Klein and Parrott teamed together to place the ball on the VMI 22-yard line, from which Dutch Campbell passed to Norman Klein for six more points. Ferris' kick from placement was again good.

Kentucky struck fast and furiously to start the second half when with only one minute of play gone, Ken Campbell raced around right end outdistancing the opposition for 57 yards and the Wildcats' third touchdown. Midway in the same quarter the Cadets gained their only points of the game after putting four first downs and a 15-yard holding penalty against Kentucky together backing the Wildcats to their one-yard line and on a bad pass from center they grabbed Klein behind his own goal for an automatic safety.

Intercepts Pass

Kozorra used his passing skill in an attempt to put VMI back in the game but on one of these plays Klein crossed up the strategy by intercepting a pass on the Cadet 42 and racing to the 26 before he was brought down. Then on a fake reverse Parrott handed the ball to Klein who slashed his way wide around left end and sprinted across the goal for his second touchdown of the game and Kentucky led 26-2. He demonstrated his prowess in deceptive running as his change of pace pulled the would-be tacklers out of position and not a one of them was able to bring him down.

Although VMI led in first downs, 15 to 7, Kentucky gained the most ground, totaling 304 yards to 190 for the Cadets. However, the Cadets passed 25 times, connecting 9 times for 106 yards, as the Wildcats completed two passes out of nine tries for 55 yards.

Memos Of A Chorus Girl, Or—Why Did I Do It!?

By John Violette

A chorus line of barefooted boys, armed with lipstick and built-in busties, invaded Mac West's monopoly of the "Twist" market last Saturday night in the Bluegrass room. No one can ever know how embarrassed they were, but courageously they carried on. Few in the audience realized that Holliday's frantic grabs were due to a slip of his slip, but nevertheless his comical gyrations brought down the house.

For three days the troupe invaded the Guignol and every other source of costumes and still, on the night of the show, were forced to fit themselves with scotch tape and bits of string. They had planned to have wigs but all efforts to secure them were in vain.

Some courageous male ventured inside the dressing room and three fake "femmes" were trampled in the rush. He was smoking a Camel. Fifteen minutes before curtain call the boys were herded backstage. They had only been allowed two practice sessions and the outcome of the show was dubious. They donned their gowns to the rhythm of knocking knees. Some few of the men were well versed in slipping into dresses but the remaining majority stood bewildered until Dr. Ward came to the rescue.

Then the curtain call came. Of course there was no curtain, but with an air of bravado Tony Vila and Roman Selles squeezed through the dressing room door into full view of the audience. They danced their rumba so vigorously that night, it has been said, that their physical education instructor has excused them from class for three weeks. All Paris, assistant comptroller; Pattle McCormack, account clerk-stenographer; Bart N. Peak, acting director and Elia Selman, bookkeeper, student union.

Leaves of absence were granted J. E. Reeves, assistant professor of political science (extension of leave), Beatrice Skimmore, secretary, college of engineering; and the termination of employment was announced for Joseph J. Brown, guard at Breckinridge hall.

joking aside, they were swell.

The other acts followed with the same measure of success. Then the chorus line was given its cue and the boys swayed into the limelight. No one can ever know how embarrassed they were, but courageously they carried on. Few in the audience realized that Holliday's frantic grabs were due to a slip of his slip, but nevertheless his comical gyrations brought down the house.

Memos Of A Chorus Girl — The doctor prescribed a rest cure for Buddy Taylor after Saturday night. He is recuperating in class... Every time I stick my head in the dorm Genella insists on a waltz... Because he failed to shave his little mustache for the dance, Conrad is now known on the campus as the "Bearded Lady"... Tony Vila has three pairs of trousers for sale, exercise did it.... Dr. Ward is now counting chorus girls instead of sheep. Goodnight and 30.

YWCA Honors Ware, Cooper With Dinner

In honor of the executive and assistant secretaries of the Southern YMCA council, the YMCA advisory board and cabinet gave a supper Monday night at the Colonial Bowling Lanes.

These leaders, Henry Ware and Roy Cooper, respectively, led an after-dinner discussion concerning the vital issues now confronting young men on the campus—the issues which are expected to arise after the war.

Mr. Cooper, on leave of absence from the secretaryship of the Clemson college YMCA to deal especially with military trainees on college campuses, talked to members of Phi Kappa fraternity, and also the Freshman club meeting.

Mr. Ware spoke on "Christian Priorities" at the Upperclass Y meeting, emphasizing the place of intelligent Christian students on the campus and their responsibility.

Long Distance Calls Aren't Always So Very Much Fun

By Mary Louise Patton

This seems to be quite the season for long distance telephone calls with so many of our rosy-cheeked coeds receiving them from numerous soldiers, sailors and marines. From all appearances, not all these calls are successful in communicating just what is said and all too often the operator is thoroughly cussed out (to put it mildly) and both parties are left most unhappy and befuddled as to what is going on.

In the first place you're probably in a vile mood and have decided that Mr. Morgan and his psychology book will be your steady date for the rest of the quarter, but after an hour with him you throw Mr. Morgan back into his corner and decide to wash your curly locks. Just as you have completely dowsed your head some friendly soul rushes into the room shouting,

"Hurry up! San Francisco's calling you!"

So with your head in a towel and soap in your eyes you drip up to the phone and say an excited "Hello."

After hearing innumerable nickels drop into the phone with a resounding clink, a familiar voice says, "Hello. This is Joe!"

"Oh, Joe, how wonderful," you say, madly wondering WHICH Joe. "Why haven't you written me?"

"Oh, er, I was going to."

"What?"

"Oh, I was."

"Was what?"

"GOING TO WRITE." You're shouting by now.

"Oh—click, click," says the receiver. Then the whine of the operator says, "Number please." You explain your troubles and she gets your party back—so SHE says.

"Hello Colonel, this is General Dingham in Washington," a new voice says.

"Yes, Joe."

"What? Colonel, did you receive the new Zennianmuna code today?"

"Why—What??? You're completely bewildered by now. The voice shouts, "Colonel—Is this Ft. Knox?"

In a meek voice you manage to say, "No sir, this is the University of Kentucky."

"What???? CENSORED—Operator!" At this the phone goes into spasms and the operator cuts in, "So sorry, sir! I'll have your connection in a minute."

And through some miracle you're again talking to Joe, who shouts, "Hey, where'd you go?"

"Nowhere, we got cut off."

"What? Can't hear. Don't whisper."

"Bye, glub hic."

"Joe, write me tonight and tell me what you said."

"Ummmmph, hic."

"I'll have to disconnect you," says the whine.

Such is the life of the popular UK coed!
